

Poquoson City Public Schools Make-Up Days

PCPS closed schools for four days as a result of the state-mandated evacuation order that impacted the Hampton Roads region. To offset the days missed, the school division will use the two built in inclement weather days, November 6 will become an early dismissal day, and December 19 will be a full student day. November 6 was originally scheduled to be a non-student day to be used for parent conferences. The afternoon of November 6 will be used for parent-teacher conferences. December 19 was an early release day and will now become a full student day. As a reminder November 9 is also an early dismissal day that may be used for conferences and on November 12 schools will start three hours late to provide time for professional development, teacher work time and conferences.

PCPS may use additional days as make-up days if Poquoson experiences inclement weather that prevents the opening of school in the coming months. The identified make-up days can be found on the school calendar. Parents are encouraged to look at them so they are aware of them prior to making travel or other plans.
